

BACKWARD SEASON CAUSE OF MINCES REDUCTION SALE

Sensational Price Reduction Sale
Starts at Mince's Underselling
Store—See Friday's
Big Advertisement.

The warmest fall season in many years brings a windfall to Maysville's buying public through no fault of this progressive store. Everybody in this vicinity knows we've had a very mild season which has been a good thing for tobacco growers and others, however, winter merchandise sales have been slowed up considerably on account of it.

The Mince's store, ever alert, is going to take its medicine and is now keeping its clerks busy marking goods down for a smashing big sale on all ladies' ready-to-wear, men's wear, shoes, dry goods and children's wear.

This is a glorious opportunity for thrifty folks who have had thoughts of a sale that would reduce prices after the holidays. The Mince's store is making the after the season reductions now, right in the heart of the season so that when stock-taking time comes there shall be nothing much left. Be sure to read their Friday and Saturday advertisements in this paper. Besides a "sale" you'll find it a sledge-hammer blow at "Old Hi Price."

SUIT AGAINST STANDARD OIL COMPANY SETTLED

Matt Hennessey Seems to Have Caused Big Corporation to Seek Settlement of Peculiar Sort of Damage Case.

The damage suit filed against The Standard Oil Company by Attorney A. H. Barker in the Pendleton Circuit Court amounting to a total of $80,000 in the three actions for Henry Belew, administrator of Fred Belew and his wife, Nora Belew, was settled at this time of court. The agreed judgment is for $12,000 and costs.

This suit was the result of the accident when Mr. and Mrs. Fred Belew were burned to death at their home near Unity, this county, on July 23, 1922. Mrs. Belew was attempting to start a fire in the kitchen stove with the contents that she had bought at a store for coal oil. The can exploded and she was burned to death. Her husband, in trying to extinguish the burning clothing of his wife, was also fatally burned and died a few days later.

Henry Belew, the administrator, stated in his petition that gasoline was sold to them instead of coal oil. This was the largest damage suit ever filed in Pendleton county—Falmouth Outlook.

The Augusta Chronicle adds:

An accident of like nature happened at Wellsburg, this county, several years ago, when Mrs. Sylvester Reed lost her life when attempting to start a fire with what she believed to be coal oil.

Attorney M. J. Hennessey, of this city, raised the point that the Standard Oil Company was liable, owing to the fact that its agent sold gasoline for coal oil, and the case was compromised.

Mr. Hennessey was the first attorney in the United States to raise this point, and it would seem that the Standard Oil Company is afraid to test the case out and let it go to a jury, as all cases of this nature have been compromised.

BANK DESTROYED BY BANDIT'S EXPLOSIVES

Small Town in Missouri Shaken By Heavy Charge of Explosives in Bank—Night Watchman Is Wounded.

Gallatin, Mo., Nov. 23.—Three men were wounded and the First National Bank was destroyed when bandits raided the town of Gallatin, Mo., early today.

The bandits escaped with $4,000 after cutting lines of communication.

Six men, believed to be of the Kansas City underworld, staged the raid. They were discovered at work on the vault of the First National Bank at 4 a. m. by John Chamberlain, night marshal. A brief tussle ensued, in which Chamberlain was captured. The raiders proceeded with their work.

Explosives were set before the vault and fuses touched off. Two tremendous shocks that awakened the entire town resulted.

Clouds of smoke rolled from the bank as furniture and fixtures were hurled in all directions, partitions reduced to kindling and windows blown out. The heavy safe parted like a cardboard box.

Stunned by the unexpectedly heavy blast, the bandits forgot their captive, Chamberlain. He opened fire.

After a brief exchange of shots, Chamberlain fell, his head and back torn by shotgun charge.
